BOTH BODIES GET TO WORK

The New General Assembly Now Fully Organized and Ready for Any Business.

MANY IMPORTANT

Several State Officers Elected Without Opposition - City Extension Bill Reoffered.

The General Assembly completed its organization in both branches yesterday

The General Assembly completed its organization in both branches yesterday and got down to work. The opening session was marked by the introduction of a dozen or more bills in the House and half a dozen in the Senate.

The Steering Committee had recommended the committee assignments of senators, and these were read in the Senate and ratified by, that body. There are few changes in chairmanships, and the members, almost without exception, got the assignments they desired.

The Senate, by a vote of 15 to 13, tabled the Walker resolution in relation to a new goodsite survey, and securing information relative thereto.

The auditor of public accounts, second midlity and superintendent of public printing were re-elected without opposition by joint action of the two houses.

The Governor communicated the resignation of Judge F. S. Tavenner, of Shenandoah, who has taken his seat as a member of the Senate.

Among the bills introduced are some legacles from the late General Assembly. These include the Anderson bill for the extension of the corporate limits of cities and towns, the bill by the same senator appropriating $20,000 for the enlargement, renovation and improvement of the State Capitol, and repealing the bill appropriating $30,000 therefor, and the Jordan cyster bill, in revised form

The feature of the House session was the introduction of bills, there having heen a great flow of them, some of which were of sweeping importance to the State. One offered jointly by Messrs. Caton and Churchan is of interest, in that it has for its object the distribution of the taxes or the reliage stock of rairoads, among hy convisationated.

The bill is as follows:

Mr. Churchman presented a bill requiring banks and trust companies to pay the State tax on the shares of stock of such company or corporation, deducting the amount from the dividends subsequently paid to stockhold-

The bill exempts oculists who have been practicing in the State for two years, and the board is authorized and required to fix rules and regulations governing the practice of the profession. The bill is designed to elevate the profession and to eliminate either resident or traveling oculists who may be found incompetent.

Mr. Lee, of Nottoway, introduced a bill raising the pay of elections offi-cers from $1 to $2 per day, and to pay the judge delivering the returns $1 ex-

The Senate.

There were about thirty senators in their seats when President Willard called that body to order. Rev. W. W. Brander offered prayer.

The Joint resolution of Mr. Walker, requesting the Board of Fisheries and the Governor to ascertain what assistance, if any, the Federal Government will extend in making a resurvey of the natural oyster beds, rocks and shoals of the Commonwealth, was laid before the Senate is construed by many to mean that that body merely indicated in this way its purpose not to tie its own and offered a motion to lay the same on the tendence of the resolution, was given five minutes in which to explain the provisions and purposes of the resolution. Clerk Button Presented Each Senator With a New Knife.

Senator With a New Knife.

In accidance with immemorial custom, Clerk Joseph Button, of the Senate, yesterday presented to the members of that body bright, new pocket knives. The old custom is said to have originated when the "clarks," as they were called, in the olden time were expected to provide members with the instrument for sharpening their quills, in the days when steel pensymere unknown. The knives are of various sizes and varieties, a few having cerksorew attachements—for the benefit of friends of senators, of course, and otherwise useless to the members. Judge Mann was challenged to show his knife and was challenged to show his knife and acquit himself of any suspicion of having a corkscrew blade. He met the challenge and stands acquitted,
